Abstract: A single paragraph of about 200 words maximum. It is strongly encouraged that students use the following style of structured abstracts, but without headings: 1) Background: Place the question addressed in a broad context and highlight the purpose of the study; 2) Methods: Describe briefly the main methods or treatments applied; 3) Results: Summarize the article's main findings; and 4) Conclusions: Indicate the main conclusions or interpretations. The abstract should be an objective representation of the article, it must not contain results which are not presented and substantiated in the main text and should not exaggerate the main conclusions.

Keywords: keyword 1; keyword 2; keyword 3 (List three pertinent keywords specific to the article; yet reasonably common within the subject discipline.)

0. How to Use This Template

The template details the sections that will be used in the assignment. All material that is to be removed or modified before you submit your assignment is coloured with yellow. Note that each section has a corresponding style, which can be found in the 'Styles' menu of Word. For example, this section.

References should be numbered in order of appearance and indicated by a numeral or numerals in square brackets, e.g. [1] or [2,3] or [4–6]. See the end of the document for further details on references.

1. Introduction [~400 words, no figures]

The introduction should briefly place the work in a broad context and highlight why it is important. It should define the purpose of the work and its significance. Finally, briefly mention the main aim of the work and highlight the principal conclusions.

2. Methods

Methods should be described with sufficient details to allow others to replicate and build on published results. Suggested sub-headings

2.1 Study Area [~200 Words; 1 figure]

Provide an overview of the study area. E.g. describe the climate, population, and geography. Why did you select this area?

Include one study area figure that allows the reader to know, which pollutants were collected at each monitoring location.

2.2 Data [~ 150 Words; 1 table describing how many monitors for each pollutant]

Provide a description of the data you have acquired for your research. Make sure to identify where the data were obtained. What do the data represent?

2.3 Statistical Analysis [~550 Words]

Provide details on the statistical analysis conducted. For example:

- Which methods did you use?
- How did you apply the methods?
- What parameters did you select?

Use subheadings:

2.3.1 IDW Interpolation

2.3.2 Kriging

2.3.3 Clustering

3. Results [~1000 Words; at least 3 Figures; 2 tables]

This section should be divided by subheadings. It should provide a concise and precise description of the experimental results, their interpretation as well as the experimental conclusions that can be drawn.

Suggested headings

3.1 Descriptive Statistics

3.2 IDW Interpolation Results

3.3 Kriging Results

3.4 Clustering Results

4. Discussion [~300 Words]

Authors should discuss the results. Compare and contrast these results between pollutants. Compare the results with at least three other papers addressing similar topics, e.g. air pollution interpolation.

5. Conclusions [~75 Words]

A short conclusion about your findings.

Author Contributions: A short paragraph specifying each student's individual contributions must be provided. The following statements should be used "X.X. and Y.Y. conceived and designed the experiments; X.X. performed the experiments; X.X. and Y.Y. analyzed the data; W.W. contributed reagents/materials/analysis tools; Y.Y. wrote section 1..."

References

References must be numbered in order of appearance in the text (including citations in tables and legends) and listed individually at the end of the manuscript. We recommend preparing the references with a bibliography software package, such as EndNote, ReferenceManager or Zotero to avoid typing mistakes and duplicated references. Include the digital object identifier (DOI) for all references where available.

In the text, reference numbers should be placed in square brackets [], and placed before the punctuation; for example [1], [1–3] or [1,3]. For embedded citations in the text with pagination, use both parentheses and brackets to indicate the reference number and page numbers; for example [5] (p. 10), or [6] (pp. 101–105).
